June Moderation- 27th May 2022

June Moderation Deadline

If you want to moderate in June, for a university start in September, you need to have submitted all your assessments by Friday 27th May 2022. This means there are 3 weeks remaining.

You will need to plan your studies in order to complete on time, remembering that the maximum number of assessments you can submit is 1 a week. (Tip: you can check the number of assessments you still have to complete by looking at your My Grades and Marksheets tab on your account).

If you have any concerns about meeting the deadline for June Moderation please contact your tutor to arrange a tutorial.

Thinking about Moderation this November?

As many of our learners are finishing for June moderation, we want to give an early mention for November moderation this year.

If you are planning to moderate in November, a lot of the information above will still apply. Using your ILP is a great way to keep track of where you are up to with your submissions. You can still watch our ILP and Moderation webinar on YouTube for guidance and support

Use our helpful guides (like the ready for marking guidance) to ensure that your work is submitted correctly, and always act on feedback from tutors. Being proactive at this time can make a huge difference as November deadlines approach.

If you ever have any questions about preparing for moderation, talk to your tutors- they will provide the best guidance.

Student Finance

If you are going to be studying at university this year, make sure you have applied for your Student Finance!

New students should apply by 20th May 2022.

You don't need to have a confirmed place at university to apply – you can apply now and update your details later if you need to.

You can find out everything you need to know by visiting the Student Finance website here.

It's not too late to apply to University!

If you missed your application deadline, it might not be too late- take a look at the information below from UCAS:

Missed your Deadline?

If you don't meet the main application deadline, you can still apply for many courses.

We recommend you ask the universities whether they have vacancies first – especially for courses with a 15 October deadline, as it's unusual for them to consider late applications because their courses are really competitive.

- 30th June 2022, 18:00 (UK time) – the final deadline for late applications with course choices
- 29th September 2022, 18:00 (UK time) – you can still apply until this date, but instead of choosing courses, you'll be entered into 'Clearing' – the process universities and colleges use to fill any places they still have on their courses

Where are they now?

Each monthly newsletter will therefore be featuring a testimonial, in which our previous learners will share some great advice about studying for your Diploma and beyond!

Katie Dodds completed an Access to Nursing Diploma in 2019 and went on to study a Nursing degree at Birmingham City University!

"I attend Birmingham City University and am currently undertaking the second year of my Nursing degree within the British Army.

One of the biggest challenges that I have faced during my undergraduate studies is time management, a skill which is crucial when in university as there are many assignments and exams to undertake.

My advice would be that take all the help and support that the university offer you and try and have that positive mindset.

DistanceLearningCentre.com prepared me for academic writing especially Harvard referencing. I have of one year of study left and I will then be a qualified nurse." (November 2021)
